COLEMAN PIGEON A CHAMPION

A homing bird, owned by F. E. Eyesacker, of Coleman, won the Western Federation homing race from Waterways, Alberta, recently, with a velocity of 988 yards per minute.

B. Carder, of Calgary, was second, and Fred Beddington, of Coleman, third.

This is the first year a Federation race has been flown, and it is a source of pride that a Coleman bird should have won against all-comers in Alberta clubs. The winning bird covered 507 1/2 miles between daylight and dark, with three hours to spare, and was well ahead of all competitors.

MAKE ANOTHER GUESS, PLEASE?

The following item is copied from The Payrus, a magazine published in Winnipeg: "W. J. Bartlett, publisher of The Blairmore Enterprise, who suffered a serious illness within recent months, is now able to be about again. The report has it, however, that Bart will probably not be able to indulge in his favorite pastime of fishing during the present season."

THANKS TO MR. FALLOW!

On behalf of the motorists who have to travel between Innisfail and Red Deer, we wish to express our very sincere thanks to Hon. Mr. Fallow, minister of public works for the Province of Alberta, for the three wheelbarrow loads of gravel placed on this twenty-mile stretch of highway.—Innisfail Province.

Born at Coleman on Wednesday morning, July 7th, to Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Gentile, a son. Mrs. Gentile was formerly Miss Florentine Houghbreg, of Blairmore. Congratulations are in order.

TAKE YOUR OWN MEDICINE

In his early days, Mark Twain was the editor of a newspaper down in Missouri. One day he received a letter from a superstitious subscriber who wrote that he found a spider in his paper, and he inquired if this was a good or a bad sign. The humorist replied with this printed letter:

"Finding a spider in your paper was neither good nor bad luck to you. The spider was merely looking over your paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door, and live a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards."

Do you use your own medicine—the medicine you go out and sell to other people—advertising? Mark Twain certainly was a humorist and saw humor in everything, but someone aptly has said that "many a truth is spoken in jest."

Seriously, printers should do more advertising—show the world that they are sold on the thing they are trying to sell to the other fellow.

"Bulletin of the Printing Industry of Wichita," Kansas.

IT'S THE HUMAN WAY

Everybody is for economy for the other fellow. We talk about reducing taxes until we are black in the face, but we do not give much help to the poor legislators, when they make the slightest effort to curb the cost of government. Take the smallest city; one group wants no money spent on parks; another group is sure that schools could get along for less than they get; another group is opposed to expenditures for snow removal, and so on. But all want lower taxes. When, in response to a general demand for tax reduction, the officials cut some activity, then the group that was for that one thing yells itself hoarse. We are all for saving at the other fellow's expense. We are gloriously willing to go without what some other fellow wants, but which we do not want; but when the other fellow opposes something we want, and he doesn't, we call him a bad citizen. No use getting mad about the situation. It has always been that way and probably always will be. Ninety per cent of all law-making is selfishness.—a very little of it represents conscientious effort to serve actual need.—Murray County Herald.

THE PASS EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO (The Blairmore Enterprise 1919)

March 27.—A good roads conference was held at the Cosmopolitan hotel last night, under auspices of the Crows' Nest Pass Automobile Association, at which the subject of a Canadian national highway through the Rockies was discussed.

The Blairmore Athletic Association was formed at a meeting held in the office of J. H. Putnam this week. Raoul Green was elected president; J. E. Gillis, Dr. O. Lillie and G. N. Elwin, vice-presidents; L. H. Putnam, secretary, and Allan Hamilton, treasurer.

A farewell party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. G. A. LaVoie on Saturday last.

The following resolution was passed at a meeting of residents of Livingstone Municipal District No. 70 at Cowley on Monday: "We do not wish the Doukhobor community to remain at Cowley, and ask the Dominion government to buy their land for settlement by returned soldiers. Doukhobors do not make desirable settlers and do not become citizens."

Quite a sensation was created the first of this week when C. W. Johnston, proprietor of the Blairmore opera house, received the following letter: "Calgary, March 22.—Her body in bond will be shipped you Friday sure." On investigation it was found that "Her Body in Bond" was the title of a new picture, with Mae Murray, to be shown here Friday.

Drs. Mackenzie and Ross were guests of the Masonic lodge at Hillcrest on Friday night, when they were tendered a farewell.

QUALTIERI - ALTOMARE

A pretty wedding took place at Natal on Saturday, June 26th, when Teresa, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Altomare, of Natal, became the bride of Mr. John Qualtieri, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Qualtieri, also of Natal. The ceremony took place in St. Michael's church at Michel at 1:30 p.m., Rev. Father Cragg officiating.

The bride was attended by her two sisters, Misses Virginia and Rose Altomare, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Amelio Qualtieri, and Mr. Emil Miseracka, of Blairmore.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the I.O.O.F. hall at Natal at 5:30, when a wedding supper was served to about 400 guests, followed by a dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Qualtieri will make their home in Natal.

A DANGEROUS GAME

A man like William Aberhart must either have superhuman faith in his own attitude or a super-human thirst for power to remain in office after experiencing the vicissitudes, both parliamentary and administrative, that Alberta's premier has gone through. Premier Aberhart recently suffered parliamentary reverses that would have demanded the resignation of any prime minister in the old days when some respect for public opinion and the nicer formalities of government still existed.

He has just dismissed his minister of agriculture, the second time in his term that he has been totally unable to agree with a colleague.

Would it not begin to occur to the average man after all this, that there was a possibility that he might be wrong and his critics might be right?

We are not concerned directly with the political fortunes of Alberta, although we feel that the worthy people of that province deserve something better than they are getting.

But we are concerned with the dignity and stability of government in Canada. And certainly Mr. Aberhart is making a negative contribution in that regard.

It may be that Alberta's premier has stumbled on to an economic principle that requires an unusual lot of selling, that he is so firm in his belief that he is willing to weather all political storms and even jeopardize the democratic principle to cling to office and work it out.

At best, it is a dangerous game.—Vancouver Sun.

THE LAWS OF NATURE

Man can construct exquisite machines, can call in vast powers, can form extensive combinations, in order to bring about results which he has in view; but in all this he is only taking advantage of the laws of Nature which already exist. He can establish no new law of Nature, which is not the result of existing ones. His greatest advances in skill and power are when he calls to his aid forces which, before, existed unemployed, or when he discovers so much of the habits of some of the elements as to be able to bend them to his purpose. He navigates the ocean by the assistance of the winds, which he cannot raise or still.—Dr. Whewell.

GEORGE LINN IS VICTIM OF MOTOR ACCIDENT

This district received a severe shock on Sunday evening last on learning of the accidental death of George Linn, one of the best known residents of Blairmore.

Mr. Linn, accompanied by Mrs. Linn and their daughter Joan, had joined Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Irvine and daughter, of Coleman, on Sunday for a motor trip to Waterton Lakes. After a pleasant day spent, and returning, at a point about fifteen miles south of Pincher Creek on the Waterton trail, the car swerved in loose gravel and overturned in the ditch. Mr. Linn was the first to extricate himself, and assisted the others, apparently suffering least of any of the party. In but a few minutes however, he suffered a relapse and passed away while enroute to the Pincher Creek hospital. Other members of the party suffered somewhat from shaking up, Mrs. Linn reported to be suffering from fractured ribs and other injuries.

The remains were held over in Pincher Creek, pending inquest, and were brought to Blairmore on Tuesday. Interment will take place in Blairmore on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Linn was about fifty years of age, and very well known in The Pass. Several years ago he narrowly escaped death when he met with an accident in a C.P.R. coal chute at Frank, on which occasion he lost an arm.

He is survived by his wife, daughter Joan and son Andrew, residents of Blairmore, with whom sincere sympathy is extended.

Funeral on Sunday next will be under the auspices of the Masonic order, of which deceased was a member of many years' standing.

At the inquest, the driver of the car, Alexander Irvine, of Coleman, was exonerated from any blame by the jury.

JOSEPH BOSELEY KILLED

Joseph Boseley, aged 35, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boseley, was instantly killed while doing some blasting on a road north of Maple Leaf on July 2nd. A premature explosion literally blew him to pieces.

He is survived by his parents, one brother, Edward, and two sisters, Mrs. J. Cardie and Mrs. H. Smith.

An inquest was held, following which the remains were laid to rest in the Bellevue cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

DEATH OF ANNE KARLINER

The death occurred at Hillcrest last week end of Miss Anne Karliner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Karliner, at the age of 17.

Miss Karliner was born in Bellevue, and is survived by her parents and two brothers Ronald and Albert.

Funeral service was held in the residence at Hillcrest on Monday afternoon, Rev. R. Upton, of Bellevue, officiating, and the remains were laid to rest in the Hillcrest cemetery.

S. R. Anderson, of the Blairmore Funeral Home, had charge of arrangements.

MRS GILBERT COUSENS PASSES

There passed away at Bellevue, at about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mary Francis, beloved wife of Mr. Gilbert Cousens, at the age of 60, following about three months illness.

Mrs. Cousens was a native of Newfoundland, born in Bay Roberts on October the 26th, 1876. She is survived by her husband and one son, William Cousens, of Bellevue.

Funeral arrangements are in the hands of A. E. Ferguson, of the Crows' Nest Pass Undertaking Parlor, and interment will be made in the Bellevue Protestant cemetery.

Edmonton is to have artificial ice.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE

With the summer season approaching, church attendance is bound to decrease, says Editor "Gus" Dobble, of the Smith Falls Record-News. The thought inspired him to make the following unusual reference:

This is the way the church sometimes looks to the pastor when he goes into the pulpit! The pastor would just as soon preach to a wood-pile as to empty benches. There is no inspiration in vacant pews!

THIS IS THE WAY IT OUGHT TO LOOK AT EVERY SERVICE AND IT WILL BEACH ONE DOES HIS PART BY COMING HIMSELF AND BRINGING A FRIEND OR RELATIVE OR OURSHERS WOULD EARN THE BIG SALARY (???) WE PAY THEM FOR SEATING THE CONGREGATION THE BEST WAY ONE CAN THOUGHT "PEPPUP" THE PREACHER ISTO HIDE EMPTY BENCHES WITH PEOPLE

Eli Latkin, a Doukhobor, was sentenced to three months in jail Friday last at Nelson when he pleaded guilty to the charge of "incommingling peaceful passengers on the highway." Latkin was arrested when provincial police turned back about 250 Doukhobors who were trekking towards Nelson.

HIS LUMBAGO WENT IN TWO WEEKS

Never Felt Better In His Life

Though he tried many so-called remedies, this man continued to suffer from lumbago for years. It troubled him, in fact, until he found the right remedy, Kruschen Salts. These are his own words:

"I would like to tell you of the benefit I derived from taking Kruschen Salts. I have been a sufferer from lumbago. I tried no end of other remedies, but got no relief whatever until one day I saw Kruschen advertised and thought I would give it a trial. I did, and to my surprise the lumbago left me after taking Kruschen for a fortnight. I am now taking it regularly every day and never feel better in my life."—W.K.

Kruschen is a combination of mineral salts which act in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. If you could see how much lumbago, uric acid deposits, you would agree that the Kruschen treatment would bring relief in case of lumbago.

THE YELLOW BRIAR

A Story of the Irish on the Canadian Countryside
By PATRICK SLATER

By arrangement with Thomas Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

CHAPTER VIII

And in another way, I got bonus pay for the trouble. I was the schoolmaster's aide at Whistling Hill. From that humble job of doing fatigue duties for him, came a reflected authority over the other youngsters that was as refreshing as a whiff of morning salts to the young Celtic nostrils. In the inner circles of his heart, any Irishman dearly loves to be a boss; and it is a heavy-handed task-master he usually makes. Watch him strutting on a policeman's beat; listen to the tail of the man, and observe the way he swings the stick of the law. May the Good Lord deliver all poor creatures from an Irish factory foreman or section boss! But, of course, if they get sick or fall down entirely, the man, being Irish, may become tender hearted. What arbitrary creatures have been produced by a race that for centuries has been in spiritual revolt against all authority? Even if I had to split the wood to warm the children at the school, I got a deal of satisfaction out of the sweet, tasty thought that the whole lot of dice of them were being ruled by Old Hickory Mick and me.

And my heart was fortified by the wholesome, friendly good humor of the Marshall family. Mrs. Marshall was as kind to me as a mother. And, after a fashion, she was greatly taken with little Charlie Marshall. The lad was a tow-haired youngster, much younger than myself—in fact, as much as seven months younger. And then, of course, he lacked my own experience in the world, being born as he was on a farm, and only once since a child in arms, having gone as far as Toronto.

Built with the labor of toll-worm hands, it was a big, sound, wholesome thing, that child, with the white which Charlie and I romped and played together. Each winter's work had brought fresh acres under the plow. The young apple trees already gave timid promise of pining berries by and by; and there was live stock aplenty about the place. Their first yoke of oxen, stall fed over winter on mangolds and oatmeal, had brought awhile back the tidy sum of $25, Halifax currency; and tinny farm horses now filled the place of those laboring cattle. To William Marshall and his wife, their farm was a constant source of deep family pride as something worthwhile already done; and within their honest kindly hearts glowed bright hopes of great things yet to be. In the fancy of William and Nancy Marshall, their rough clearing in the backwoods of Canada would grow with the years into the landed estate of a proud Irish family. And, on a pioneer farm, there must of course, be a son to bring such fond hopes to a rich fruition. And Charlie was the only boy in the family.

Such an only boy on a farm usually has a lonely time of it. The men folk are too busy to be bothered with him. His little sisters are a tag-along and a nuisance. And the women about the house keep calling to him to close the doors. No one took the time to probe into the curious ideas and odd humors of a healthy young lad, who ate a plenty. But I proved a good listener. So for a while, I filled a great want in the heart of the quiet, self-centred little boy, who boasted stoutly to me of his marvelous feats in uprooting great trees and upsetting buildings. Charlie had been driven to live very much to himself, and, as a result, had constructed a beautiful dream-land of make-believe, where he had the power to do anything he wished and to get anything he desired. And we all, at times, play at the same game. The books we enjoy are the ones that do our day-dreaming for us. Stories of wild adventure appeal to timid little clerks growing bald-headed and fat-bellied in stuffy offices, and cynical erotic novels are for readers whose lives have been a dreary and uneventful routine. Charlie Marshall went further than most of us; he carried his world of imagination with him into his world of fact.

About the time I first went up to Mono Township, Mr. Bell, who had a wood-yard shop on York Street, in Toronto, had recently invented a reaping machine, which he had on exhibition, and was offering for sale for $49, Halifax currency. Men up-country, who had never seen the bell reaper, were scratching their heads at the possibilities of this great labor-displacing discovery of the age. Charlie Marshall's young mind was greatly impressed, and with a few rusty bolts and a short board or two, he was busy fabricating a machine that would, he told me, make Bell's reaper look like a sixpence. And, though I failed to grasp them, he insisted on every inventor in explaining his ideas to me. I was greatly interested. Since then, I have driven the distance of clean road the world, with one horse or another, on the excuse of getting spare parts for farm machinery; but I cannot yet grasp the idea in the hands of their makers, who put cheap iron castings in the vital parts of a machine built for heavy field service. As the maker of a farm implement, I fancy little Charlie Marshall's chief fault was that of over-enthusiasm, one red and the other green.

There was a little four-year-old in the Marshall family; and Betty had laid claim to me, will or no, the second day I was in Mono. The child was standing by the curb of the way, swinging on one foot and with the corner of her piny in her mouth. She had evidently been looking me over, but the first time I took notice of her existence, her eyes were on the floor in that demure, shy way women sometimes have before they lose their milk teeth.

"You no scratch—me. . . Paddy," she asked me, as I passed out with the visitor of this kind, little Betty.

"No . . . why?"

"You a cat-lick!"

"Come on, little girl," I said, taking her hand, "come on and help me get the water."

After the pall hoisted itself up, I treated her to a cup of the cold, clear water.

"Shame on you!" said I, "licking your nose in the cup. How can I drink after that? I asked her—"you sticking your nose in the cup?"

I could see that was a power for her; and I rinsed the cup out carefully three times, before treating myself to a drink.

"Oh, you are hollerer, 'your nose sticks in, too!"

"And I was hauled around straightaway to see the broken crockery where her mud pies were made. I did not sample her wares, but if I was giving her a reference as a cook general, I would say that she seemed a swift and confident worker, but a little wasteful in handling her supplies.

Betty was a winsome child, and, in proof of it, I can produce a faded photograph of her young ladyship at the age of six. There was a copper sheen to her little pigtail, and her eyes were to a true blue. Of course, getting a likeness taken in those days was a full-dress parade, and the judicious will not be deceived by the extreme neatness of Elizabeth Ann in her Sunday-go-to-meeting dress. The faces of her sisters, let me tell you, were usually drawn, and her drawers would often have been the better for a blinch. Her body was as supple as a rope, and she threw around with an abandon which belied her smallness of no account. The bodily agility some children have can only be explained by reference to universal joints. Betty was a fearless little dervish, always getting into the way, and scampering out in front of an excitement. Hers was a fiery little temper that did not dissolve in tears.

Times without number the child had been warned to quit riding astride the old black mare, and to practice the pig pat to a stop to the practice by dumping Elizabeth Ann into a soft, juicy wallow hole. 2210

"You are a bad little girl," I told her, as she sat scraping the mud off her.

"You no like me! . . . me no like you!" and quick as a flash she shed a shoe and flung it at me.

But it was a mist, little hand that was shoved into mine as the smile suddenly played on the dimple again. Betty had a lift of the gab, and her explosive spirit earned her many a smart spanking.

"Close your gabbie, and hold your liddle!" Sarah Duncan would exclaim, as the child's lumber tongue wagged on incessantly.

The quiet of the Sabbath's blessed rest was not broken in those days for the country-woman by noisy parties of city friends driving up the lane with a hungry look in their children's eyes. But the Reverend Mr. Berry, the Wesleyan Methodist minister, had the annuity habit, now and again, of bringing his dear helpmate and all the little Berrys with him to his morning preaching appointment at the local meeting house. And before the service, he would drive up our lane to let Mrs. Marshall see what she was in for. Of necessity, she invited the minister and his family to dinner. And, of course, the Rev. Mr. Berry told dear sister Marshall not to go to any special trouble. And, of course, Mrs. William Marshall knew, and the Rev. Mr. Berry and his wife, and all the little Berrys knew—and the Stanning Committee of the Methodist Church—and all the world knew—that a Sunday dinner for a Methodist minister's family was a formal and heavy affair with its chicken soup, floating the dumplings, its two vegetables, and a large roast, followed by hot pies and puddings.

Many a Sunday morning, I caught a couple of huns on the run to bring their necks for the material good of the Methodist congregation; and if the Methodist ministers are able to run heaven the way they try to run things down here, I sincerely hope these chickens will be counted to me for righteousness. On one Sunday visitation of this kind, little Betty, who was then rising six, helped me pick and shell a big mess of green field peas. The service of the dinner was delayed owing to an unexpected storming at the church; and the aroma of the kitchen had meanwhile stirred up lively yearnings in the stomachs of the Marshall children. Just as the spread started to come to the table, it suddenly occurred to the Rev. Mr. Berry that there should be a short season of family worship. So we all pulled our chairs back from the table and knelt sedately as the minister led us in prayer. The reverend gentleman could be counted on to garish every discourse with a reference to "the weary, wistful, waiting world," and to work in a phrase about "the wreck of matter and the crash of worlds." You know the type?

And after that came a bible-reading, in which king David told God about the bad disorder he had, which made his friends shun him and was ruining his house. As we started to put the chairs back to the table, the Rev. Mr. Berry started off afresh on an extended news summary for God of all our local needs in a spiritual way.

Betty Marshall became quite weary with wistful waiting.

"Good God, mamma!" she exclaimed. "Is him going to pray again?"

Which remark sent an empty plump from the family table. If Betty's feet did not kick up a protest, it's not day yet.

The next summer at the age of seven, Elizabeth Ann had her first spasm of philosophic doubt. The child laydied me one morning on my way up from the stable.

"It's a great lie you are, Paddy," she accused me, "saying there are fairies."

"Well," I inquired, "what about it?"

"Sarah Duncan says there ain't any!"

"How does the woman know?"

"She says she never saw any."

"Well," I replied, "there are lots of things the old Sarah Duncan never saw. She never saw God, or the blessed angels, and yet she believes in them. She never saw the ghost down by the cedar swamp, and yet she is afraid to go by there in the dark."

Pension Curiosities

In Connection With The War Of 1812

In the United States last week they observed Memorial Day. One American kept it by pointing out in the New York Times that since the Revolution the Government has paid war veterans over $21,000,000,000.

Some of the things noted by this writer are extraordinary, to say the least.

The war of 1812 ended 122 years ago. Yet at the beginning of the present month Mrs. Caroline King, widow of Private Darius King, of the New York Militia, received her pension check of $20.00. Mrs. Esther Ann Hill Morgan, daughter of Private John Hill, of the New York Militia, received her monthly cheque of $20—both pensions going back to the War of 1812.

The Mexican War was fought in 1846-48. At the close of last month 226 widows of soldiers who fought in the Mexican War were still on the pension rolls.

The Civil War was over and done with 72 years ago. Last month Washington mailed out cheques for 78,000 persons on account of the Civil War. In addition there were nearly 5,000 veterans, widows and orphans of the Indian wars drawing pensions, over 2,000 veterans of the Spanish-American War drawing pensions.

Finally, there are Great War pensions. United States World War veterans have thus far collected $3,250,000,000—and are still collecting. This in addition to $3,621,000,000 they received through bonus cheques and for medical and hospital care—Charlotte Guardian.

Too Smart For Capture

Arizona Cowboys Unable To Round Up Wild Horses

Fleet-footed wild mustangs that roam the isolated Arizona strip between the Grand Canyon and the Utah border remained at large after a futile attempt of 60 picked cowboys to corral them.

Returning to Phoenix after abandoning the roundup, arranged to ride the range of the pests, Huling E. Usery, assistant federal grazer for Arizona, expressed doubt that many of the animals would ever be captured.

Aided by an airplane, Civilian Conservation Corps enrollees who constructed huge corrals, a rugged terrain and torrid temperatures, the cowboys in two days captured the most of 60 of the tamest animals.

Some died from exhaustion before they reached the improvised corrals, and others, frightened by captivity, died before they could be shipped to Flagstaff, the nearest railroad station, almost 200 miles away.

Usery estimated not more than half of the captured would live to reach their destination at Clovis, N.M., where they will be placed on a reservation block.

An estimated 500 still enjoy the freedom of the open range, although ranchers have tried for years to corral or destroy them.

Where Starling Is Supreme

Its Manoeuvring Cannot Be Surpassed By Any Other Bird

"In fleet flight no bird (except the superb swift, and not even the duck, because of its gull-winged) surpasses the manoeuvring of the starling," writes John Stuart Thomson to the New York Sun.

He may in individual tactics be surpassed by the kingbird. "But on the far-flung chart of the skies one starling leader goes to the front at the urge of destiny which whippers to him alone. When he calls for wheel of divisions, the order prospectively breaks up, each fleet leader by a leader. Round and round they go, and at each round one division drops to the feeding grounds till all are placed and provided for, and the Peary of the voyage at last reaches his own Parthian North!"

A Presage Of Trouble

Sun Spots On The Planet Jupiter Interests Astronomers

Three discoveries that presage trouble for the earth was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science. They are: One, a huge, new spot on the planet Jupiter which is the beginning of a mysterious storm there; two, a remarkable change on the face of Mars which looks like fine dust sweeping the planet; three, record-breaking sunspot storms on the sun.

Jupiter's storm and Mars' dust haze have no effect on the earth. But they coincide with the sunspot storms, which directly affect the earth's rainfall and communications, and may have some connection with the present changes on the sun.

Jupiter's spot, a dark patch perhaps the size of North America, south of the planet's equator, was discovered within the past month at the Lowell observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., and announced by E. C. Silpher.

The spot lies in what astronomers think is an outer shell of clouds, that include ammonia and methane, and that hide the surface of Jupiter. This new spot has no connection with Jupiter's famous "big red spot," which is seen permanently.

The change in Mars' face also announced by Silpher and was commented on by other astronomers.

The sun-spot storms were reported from Mt. Wilson by Edith B. Nicholson and Elizabeth Sternberg Mulder, read by Alfred H. Joy, of the same observatory.

The present spots, they said, are running about 150 a day, will increase in number until January. Then within the first four months of next year the earth may expect their full force.

One all-time sun-spot record already has been broken this year. This was the most vicious and longest magnetic storm on record. It was due to a group of sun-spots. Radio and telegraph service were disrupted.

Powerful Bomb

New War Weapon Demonstrated By British Experts

British military experts are experimenting with a powerful new gas incendiary bomb, the Sunday Referee said.

Using a charge one-third smaller than that of the ordinary bomb, the new incendiary bomb is carried in its way through steel armor plate, a fire wall and a protection of more than three inches of sand in 30 seconds.

After searing through this triple protection, the bomb released a deadly gas, the newspaper reported. The bomb was perfected by J. S. Hood, British inventor.

Famous Surgeon's Opinion

High Heels Not Injurious But Tight Shoes Are

A famous British orthopedic surgeon came to the defense of women who wear high-heeled shoes but condemned wearing of footgear that is too tight.

Women who wear tight shoes, R. Watson Jones, of Liverpool, said, were "on a par" with Chinese women who used to bind their feet to make them small. However, he said, high heels were not injurious, "provided they are not too high." The trouble high heels were supposed to cause was considerably exaggerated, he declared.

He expressed the opinion women were "getting more sense" in their choice of shoes, declaring he had noticed in England that their footwear was becoming larger.

Some say the age of chivalry is past. It is never past so long as there is a wrong left unredressed on the part of a man or woman left to say, "I will redress that wrong or spend my life in the attempt." The age of chivalry is never past so long as we have faith enough to say "God will help me to redress that wrong, or if not me, He will help those that come after me, for His eternal will is to overcome evil with good. Thus man made equal to every event, and he can face danger for the right."

Geologists Give Warning

Tell What Must Be Done To Prevent Desert Conditions In U.S.

Geological records of the past 50,000 years tell what must be done if the midwest dustbowl of the United States does not want to return to the desert it once was.

These records were given to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the Illinois State geological survey.

This "bowl" was a geological meal-storm up to about 20,000 years ago. Since then it has settled down to a pastoral sort of peace, never really threatened with interruption until man started to settle it.

Before the peaceful period there were dust storms so terrific they deposited in Nebraska 42,000 square miles of the present soil, to a depth of scores of feet.

Dr. Leighton said recent dust storms have produced "blow out depressions" a number of feet deep and many acres in extent in South Dakota, western Kansas and eastern Colorado.

But these are only little warnings of what happened in ancient times. Ancient "blow out depressions" 40 feet deep and two miles or more in extent have been found in the high tablelands of western Nebraska and adjoining states.

Even more startling is the warning of geology these western plain soils in some places can blow away without drought.

To do it again, Dr. Leighton said, they only have to be stripped of vegetation by unintelligent agriculture.

More Graduates This Year

Army Of 5,750 Step Out Into Business And Professional World

From all Canadian universities, an army of 5,750 graduates have stepped out into the business and professional world. A survey covering 18 colleges shows that at least 250 more degrees were awarded this year than in 1938, and the number will be augmented by graduates from theological and other colleges. Engineering turned out fewer graduates but scientific farming retained a strong appeal with about 300 awards at seven colleges. Graduate in medicine increased, while a decline is noted practically all along the line in the number going into law.

When the Graf in farewell to its birthplace circled Friedrichshafen, the flight was its 590th since it was placed in service in 1928. It has crossed the Atlantic 143 times and flown a total of 1,655,700 miles.

IS THIS SOCIAL CREDIT?

In the closing hours of the recent session of the Alberta Legislature a measure was passed whereby members of the Legislature might get an advance of $450.00 on their next unearned indemnity. The act further stated that if for any reason a member who had received such advance should cease to be a member at the next session the said member would be considered to have earned the $450.00 so advanced and the province would be out by just that amount.

Should the sixty-three members take advantage of this very liberal "Social" credit policy of the Social Credit Government the province would have advanced $28,350.00.

Now here's the other side of the picture.

"The provincial government will no longer render financial assistance to the children of unemployed Alberta war veterans to enable them to attend High School."

J. Hodgson, president of the Unemployed Ex-Servicemen's Association at Calgary, stated that letters had been received by members, with children attending high school, from the provincial government to this effect: "The letters to our members were signed by M. O'Brien, secretary of the department of education," Mr. Hodgson said. "The letters stated that as no provision was made in the budget for a grant to enable children of veterans to attend high school, no appropriation would be made for this purpose for the year 1937-38."

"The Social Credit government is thus the first Alberta government since the war to refuse financial aid to make it possible for veterans, in poor circumstances, to put their children through high school," Mr. Hodgson said.

"The result will be that many veterans will be obliged to take their children from school. The grant, which was from $2.50 to $5 a month, went to buy books, pay fees and so forth. Relief money given veterans leaves no balance over living expenses, for this purpose, especially on view of the higher cost of living."

The grant by the province amounted to $20,000, and a great many children of men who served their country in the war were aided," Mr. Hodgson continued. "The U.F.A. government did its part. Aid is given by the governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, and the Alberta government now stands alone in refusing to extend assistance."

J. S. Newall, vice-president of the Unemployed Ex-Servicemen's Association, stated that not only had the present government decided to discontinue its aid to children of war veterans in regard to high school education, but it had steadily reduced the extent of its assistance since coming into office.

His child, he said, had first received a grant of $6 a school month. This was reduced to $4, and then to $2.50. Now he had been notified that the grant would be discontinued altogether.

This splendid service to the children of our war veterans would cost the province only $20,000, and the government refuses because they have not the money.

Yet, they are willing to advance to members of the legislature $28,350.00 of their still unearned indemnities. This is certainly not the Social Credit as propounded by Mr. Aberhart and his followers prior to election.—Innisfail Province.

KILL! KILL! KILL!

On with the dance! Step on it; we are late! Hello, there are a couple of cars that have run into each other head on! Hurry past! There are dead and wounded people there on the grass. We might have to go to court as witnesses, or carry them to a hospital! Shoot the gas into her. You can pass that truck before we get to the top of the hill. Hurry! Gosh, you almost hit that old lady! Why do people allow women as old as that to get out on the highway? They are all benighted. We might have hurt her. There is a hole you can break through in that line of traffic. Give her the gun! Gee, that was close! Did you hear that fellow swear? We didn't hit him. What's he got to complain about? Blow your horn and make that guy get over where he belongs! Why, the fool won't give us the right of way! He can't be going more than forty-five. How can he expect to stay on the pavement at that pace? Hit her up around the right side there! Boy, that scared him! Maybe that will teach him to keep over where he belongs! I thought for a minute we were going to turn turtle. Look, there is another accident! That car is on its top with its wheels in the air! Looks like a bug on its back, doesn't it? There was blood on the grass. Some one must have been badly hurt. Crazy fools, they don't know how to drive, yet they get right out into traffic. Watch that woman! She is driving all over the road! Run up alongside her and give her a blast on the horn! Whew! Didn't her fender nick ours when she swerved? I believe it did. Thank heavens she didn't lock fenders with us. It might have caused an accident. I hate woman drivers! Cut around that fellow. Never mind the curve. There isn't anything coming. Crash!

Where am I? What has happened to me, doctor. My leg has been cut off? My God!—Kiwis Magazine.

COAL MINE FIRES CAN BE PREVENTED

News of a fire in a coal mine strikes a peculiar horror in the heart of the reader, whether it be in our own or a foreign country. Fortunately in Canada coal mine disasters are rare and few entail loss of life. To the continued watchfulness of these entrusted with accident prevention must go much of the credit for this splendid record.

In a paper published in the June bulletin of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, H. C. M. Gordon, assistant general to the manager, Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, outlines the causes and prevention of coal mine fires. He describes the means of fighting the fire once they have begun by citing actual cases that have occurred in the Maritime Provinces. In all cases the fires had been sealed off from access to air and allowed to smother themselves out.

A description of the necessary firefighting equipment and plan of attack is described but, as Mr. Gordon points out, carefulness and instruction of the working force in safety methods and good housekeeping methods underground are all important.

Bootlegging trade promises so much greater business for the brewers of the United States that they are falling in line with the churches and temperance organizations to bring about prohibition.

Both passenger and express traffic on this division of the C.P.R. have been exceedingly heavy of late, many passenger trains being made up of nine or ten cars, as compared with the average train of five cars a year ago.

Ontario horses in Alberta are not being licensed, neither are blind pigs, rummy hounds or stool pigeons. As a matter of fact, in spite of all the efforts of the present government in Alberta, there are yet opportunities for further "unnecessary" taxation.

Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., LL.D., chairman and president, and officers of the Canadian Pacific Railway paid honor to C. B. Foster, passenger traffic manager of the company, who retired on July 1st after 46 years service, when he was presented with a radio, desk and chair.

At an Edmonton wedding in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Colin Allan, Miss Joyce May Copeland became the bride recently of J. E. Brownlee, junior, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brownlee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Smith, of Highlands United church, former pastor of the Blairmore United church.

In the June 30 issue of the Alberta Gazette, the following certificates of incorporation are declared cancelled: The Progressive Society, The Patriotic Society, The Commercial Club of Edmonton, The Northern Club, the Dominion Ex-Servicemen's Society, The Canadian Ukrainian Society, The Cosmo Society, the Athabasca Social Society, The Crocus Club, The Miners' Social Club of Edmonton, and The Venice Club.

Tom Thompson, oldtimer of The Pass, who for the past several years has been helping to wear down the mountains near Burns, was a visitor to Blairmore on Tuesday. Tom has been occupying a place somewhere on this earth for close to seventy-five years, and still claims he is not foot-worn and is capable of navigating the balance of two thousand miles on foot coming to him. In his day, he claims to have covered an average of 1860 miles a year as a pedestrian, so multiply that by his number of years and you'll find he has a record to be proud of. He also claims that the greatest sin of his lifetime has been over-eating.

The value of the farm products produced in the State of Iowa during one year is greater than the total of Alaska's gold production since the United States purchased Alaska.

The many district friends of Mr. Harry Clements, formerly of Pincher Creek, but now of Nelson, will be pleased to learn that he has improved sufficiently to be about a little and drive his car again.

Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. James Eddy, of Burnis, upon the birth of a son on July 1st. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Eddy was Miss Vera Cos, of Pincher Creek.

And still a later fish story, which is absolutely true: Dipping water from Lyon Creek, right inside the town limits of Blairmore, on Wednesday morning, a fish of legal size felt obliged to jump into the pail, and is since a prize in alive form at a Blairmore home. Beat it, if you can!

A provincial convention of the Communist party will be held in Edmonton from July 31st to August 2nd. At the convention forty delegates to the Dominion congress of the party, to be held in Toronto on October 9th, will be elected. A speaking tour, to include about fifty meetings, will be held in the province before the convention.

Miss Madeline Chardon, of Blairmore, who has been a visitor here every week-end since last September, to conduct her classes in piano study at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Finlay on Armstrong Avenue, had her final classes last Saturday. Miss Chardon will not continue her classes when the school year resumes in September. —Crabrook Courier.

A couple of thugs entered a farm residence near Holden, Alberta, beat up an aged couple, then ransacked the house. The 81-year-old owner was stretched from a rafter in his granary with his feet barely touching the floor, while his 75-year-old wife was beaten up, bound and thrown in bed. Then the house was ransacked and robbed of $36 cash and other articles.

Mass meetings in the interest of the Communist Party of Canada, and Alberta, are being held throughout the province, particularly in the industrial centres. First meeting here on Thursday afternoon, followed by meetings in Bellevue, Hillcrest and Coleman, all addressed by Mr. Leslie Morris, former editor of The Clarion and a member of the Dominion Communist committee, Mr. A. Young, Mayor of Williams and others.

The Hanson block in Cranbrook has changed hands, being purchased from Conrad W. Johnson last week by Streton Limited, a newly organized English company, of which Francis O. Streton, of Tunbridge, England, is principal shareholder, and M. A. Beale, of the firm of Beale & Elwell, is managing director. The main floor of the Hanson building is occupied by the Royal Bank of Canada, Beale & Elwell's real estate office, the shoe store of E. W. Sjodin, and Jonesy's Beauty Parlor. The third floor is leased as an annex to the Queen's hotel.

This is copied from The Coleman Journal, and is very much to the point right here: There are imitations of printed matter, produced under sweatshop conditions and scab methods, always undercutting those who try and maintain a decent standard of wages and meet their bills. Such individuals have found resort to knocking competitors in order to secure business, even to the extent of overstepping the truth. Scabs, pirates, bedroom printers—there is a flock of them of all types who never trained for the job, who carry no trade or apprenticeship membership, who are just leeches on the legitimate trade to drag it down to their own miserable standard of doing business.

Why should the newly-married groom tolerate having his picture taken? He already appears to be henpecked.

Who is the local guy who, having read of the wonderful qualities of Elephant Fertilizer, took doses of a tablespoonful after each meal in the hope of recovering his hair?

Unemployed brought in from Ontario are called "horses." Those already resident in Alberta must have been known as "asses." Combine the two and you will have an ideal product of our present government.

Mosquitoes are proving a real menace to fishermen and others these days. One fisherman reported being attacked by a skeeter that measured fully four inches in length, and that before the insect could be beaten off it had punctured his heart, lungs and a bottle of Scotch.

Four members of an Auburn, Massachusetts, family were drowned in an irrigation ditch near Calgary yesterday, when their car somersaulted from the small bridge and plunged into the canal. One member of the family, Miss Eleanor Wales, a teacher, survived.

MOTORIST WORKS HALF TIME FOR TAXES

The authority which governments take to impose legal prohibitions on business, might with propriety sometimes be applied to themselves.

Is there any tenable argument, for instance, why car owners should be singled out as the victims of the persistently frequent budget-bolstering grab of the taxing authorities? The motorist of small income gives from 12 to 15 days of his year's work to pay taxes clamped upon him simply because he owns a car. This was the recent finding of a survey conducted by the American petroleum industries, the accuracy of which may be challenged in some quarters on the ground of bias.

But the motorist will suspect it may be on the side of conservatism. He does not need to be told that over Canada as a whole the automotive tax burden he now bears, is out of all proportion to his income. Neither does he need to be told that the levy on gasoline is an undisputed sales tax on a necessity for thousands in his income class. Nor does he require an adding machine to prove to his satisfaction that it falls heaviest on the man of moderate means who can least afford to pay it.

His plight would be bad enough if his money were used for his benefit. But when most of it is diverted to other purposes, surely as a matter of common fairness there ought to be a legal prohibition against such wholesale diversion.

Two inmates escaped from the Ponoka asylum and are heading towards the Pacific coast in their quest for Social Credit dividends.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cleland and two small sons were visitors to Waterton Park on Sunday.

Mrs. James Smith, junior, is a visitor to Calgary.

Miss Jennie Lemire was a week end visitor to Macleod.

Mr. and Mrs. Minot Stetson, of Fort Saskatchewan, accompanied by Lory Blackburn, of Pincher Creek, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Murphy and family on Wednesday of this week.

A quiet wedding took place in Pincher Creek on Saturday last, July 3rd, when Avis Margaret, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Horning, of Cowley, was united in marriage to Mr. Clovis Bonnier. The bride was charming in a dress of gold satin, cut on princess lines, with a spray of flowers adorning her hair. After the ceremony, the party returned to partake of the wedding breakfast, which was served in the Cowley hotel, with only the immediate members of both families being present. Dressed now for travelling in a green tailored suit with white accessories, Mrs. Bonnier with her husband left by motor for a honeymoon trip to Calgary. Upon their return they will take up residence on their ranch in the Porcupine Hills district.

The Ladies' Aid of the United church were entertained at their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. M. A. Percevaux on Thursday afternoon, the 8th. At this meeting, it was decided to have extensive repair work done to the manse, to the extent of one hundred and seventy-five dollars, or there about, the work being begun soon, so that the job may be completed during the summer weather. Arrangements were also made to hold a garden party on the afternoon of Saturday, July 17, on the lawn of Mrs. C. J. Bundy. The next meeting of the Aid will take the form of a picnic, when the families are invited to be in attendance at the picnic grounds by the river side, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Snyder, on Thursday afternoon, August 2nd.

BEELEVUE HAPPENINGS

Miss Kathleen Costick is a patient in the Hillcrest hospital, having undergone an operation for chondriolitis.

Misses Enes and Esther Chiarovano left Sunday for Calgary, where they will attend summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coupland and Margaret are Calgary visitors this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Radford, Miss Beatrice and James are spending a two week's holiday at Portland, Oregon. Tony Schmiedl is attending summer school at Calgary.

Masters Ronald Cole and Danny Quintillo are attending the Calgary Stampede.

Misses Margaret and Eleanor McAndrew, of Calgary, are spending the holidays in town.

W. R. Underwood is taking in the Stampede.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Douglas and son, of Carmanagay, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Cherbo.

Mrs. Turner and her grandson, Bobby Coates, left Saturday to attend the Calgary Stampede.

Mrs. A. Hallworth and son, Mattie Wood, returned on Tuesday evening from Calgary.

Masters Billy and Morris Hampson left on Monday to spend the holidays in Creston.

Miss Erna McDonald is attending summer school at Edmonton.

Clifford Padgett is attending the Calgary Stampede.

Miss Peggy Dowson is spending the summer holidays with friends in Calgary.

Mrs. F. Gilroy and daughter, Miss Lily, left for Greencourt, Alberta, on Monday, where the latter will spend her vacation of two weeks.

Mrs. G. W. Cousins and sister, Mildred McLean, of Princeton, B.C., are visiting their parents here for a few days.

The remains of the late Joseph Boseley, victim of a blasting accident on Friday last, were laid to rest on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Service was held at the home by Rev. Father O'Dea.

Miss Isa Penman is spending her vacation at Princeton, B.C.

Mr. H. Meade returned from Calgary Tuesday, driving a new Ford V8.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Rhodes are in Calgary attending the Stampede.

The local Caledonian Society held their annual picnic at Pasburg on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Cox are spending a two-week's vacation in Calgary.

W. Cole, junior, was a business visitor to Calgary this week.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Morgan was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday evening at 5 o'clock, when Miss Mabel Leah Morgan became the bride of William Hammer, of Coleman. Rev. John Wood officiating. The bride was beautifully attired in a floor-length dress of blue crepe, with silver and white accessories, and carried a bouquet of flowers. A large number of friends sat down to the wedding breakfast. The happy young couple will take up residence in Coleman, where Mr. Hammer is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Curry are rejoicing over the birth of a daughter.

The remains of the late Robert Baxter Smith were laid to rest on Friday afternoon last in the Hillcrest cemetery, following service conducted at the home by Rev. John Wood. The funeral was largely attended. Pallbearers were R. Truba, F. White, T. D'Ercole, W. Richards, I. Daniels and Angus Grant.

David Haggerty, of Trail, is spending a few weeks' vacation with his parents here.

Cyril Richards left for Edmonton by motor last week, where he will attend the summer school.

Isabel Westrup returned home last Sunday from Calgary, where she has been studying music.

Steve Beranek left for Gem this week, where he will work with Thornton's dairy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Atkinson left for the coast Sunday, via Trail, where they will visit with their son Leslie.

G. E. Cruickshank motored to Calgary and return last week.

The death of Annie Karlner on Friday came as a great shock to the community. A student of the Hillcrest high school, she was but 16 years of age. She is mourned by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Karlner, and two brothers. Remains were laid to rest in the Hillcrest cemetery. Pallbearers were J. Andreaschuk, M. Mackie, F. Grant, E. Caswell, S. D'Amico and H. Draper.

An exanige of what could be followed by the Alberta government in an effort to help out the unemployed and deserving element of our province is exemplified through efforts of local parties in giving considerable employment and assistance through timbering and lumbering in a district of timber that had been scorched by forest fires in 1936. Already, employment is being afforded to close to one hundred men by local district effort—no need of "importing" capital. This timber—thousands of acres of it—will be of no value or no use if allowed to stand for another year or two. It is of inestimable merchantable value right now and could be utilized with profit by the government and help out considerably in relief of distress. Far less than the amount offered in advance to members of our government would establish a whole lot of men in earning capacity in this corner of Alberta.

An interesting wedding took place in Natal on Thursday, July 1, when Miss Anna Beech, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Beech, of Natal, became the bride of William Duncan, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Duncan, of Michel. The wedding ceremony, conducted by Rev. W. Latimer, took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Beech. Immediately after the wedding ceremony the young couple and those invited sat down to a wedding supper. The wedding, celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, was a private family affair with only the closest of relatives being invited. Miss Mabel Beech, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while Morris Duncan, brother of the groom, supported the groom. The young couple left the next day for Vancouver, where they will spend months' honeymoon before returning to Natal. Mr. Duncan is at present a member of the Michel-Natal school staff, teaching Grade VIII.

Government By Commission

It is not perhaps surprising that organizations and individuals are inclined to look askance at what has been termed the "rising tide of bureaucracy" as represented in the growing tendency to hand over the reins of governmental administration to appointed boards and commissions.

That there is a growing trend in this direction, both in the Federal and provincial arenas in Canada cannot be gainsaid. The evidence is palpable. One only has to look around and enumerate, for proof that a multiplicity of boards and commissions are at work performing, in some cases the functions of government. In others, the duties formerly delegated to the courts. And the tendency is towards increased growth of administration in this form.

Apart from the question of expediency, there are, of course, arguments advanced in support of administrative government by appointed commissions and boards and sometimes by tribunals. Arguments that are without foundation. For instance, it is urged with a good deal of truth that demands by the people upon their governments for extension of existing services and new services is increasing all the time, and that these services can be rendered with greater expedition and more efficiency by boards set up for the purpose than by governmental departments.

The argument cannot very well be refuted, but the question which the people have to face is whether or not they are willing to surrender a good many privileges, such as the principle of governmental responsibility to the electorate, the right of appeal against decisions and the right to know what is going on, for the sake of speed and perhaps greater efficiency.

That these principles, or should one call them rights—are impaired and threatened to an increasing degree with the multiplication of administrative boards and commissions was recognized at the recent convention of the Law Society of Saskatchewan, when delegates approved a committee report pointing out some of the principal objections to administration by commission and decided that the committee continue its work and further, supported a proposal that a program of education which would bring the facts and the problem to the attention of the public be conducted.

One of the chief objections to commission form of administration is the fact that arbitrary powers are usually vested in organizations which are not directly responsible to the electorate and very often there is no appeal to the courts from the dictates and rulings of these bodies. In other words, the individual, deprived of recourse to the courts in which he has every confidence, has no power to obtain redress. That is to say, one of the fundamental rights of the individual is longer safeguarded to that extent.

Another objection, and this was stressed by the Law Society committee, is the fact that these appointed tribunals frequently commit their rulings in secrecy, with public excluded, and coupled with that is the fact that reasons for decisions are not usually given. Under these circumstances, it is not surprising that the committee decided that "the comparative secrecy of the hearing tends to destroy confidence."

When rulings and decisions, binding upon the public, are given behind closed doors and without any opportunity for the public to be heard, it is to be expected that public confidence in tribunals that carry on their work in this manner will not be very strong.

On the other hand it may well be pointed out that frequently enough the wheels of justice operating through the established channels of the law courts travel slowly and, to the layman, it appears that the process involved often entail unnecessary expense, possibly because of slow motion and the necessity of traversing a road bordered by a good deal of red tape.

No one in this country would wish to support the informality, sometimes bordering on indigity, which marks the administration of justice in some of the courts on the other side of the international boundary, but if measures can be adopted here which would simplify procedure and reduce its costliness without robbing the courts and legal procedure of the dignity and respect in which they are properly held, they would be generally welcomed.

It is to the credit of the barristers attending the Saskatchewan convention that some recognition was given to this phase of the general question. The very fact that lawyers themselves recognize the advisability of modifying procedure and reducing expense to suit present day circumstances and conditions is encouraging.

Relief Frauds

A Little Bit Of Reason Is Necessary In All Things

There are still thousands of deserving people on relief. It would also look as if there are still some others who are imposing on the taxpayers. A case that apparently belongs in the latter category was revealed in police court. A Toronto resident was sentenced to seven days in jail and fined $20 or seven days and had his driving permit cancelled on an additional fine of $10 or 10 days was imposed on him for failing to return to the scene of an accident in which another car had been damaged to the extent of $30.

The evidence was that the accused had been drinking. His counsel stated that he is not working and is on relief.

What those who are paying the relief bills will want to know is how it is that a relief recipient has the money to own and drive a car, buy a driving permit and pay for gasoline and buy whiskey if he is really an indigent.—Toronto Telegram.

Luck Ran In Three

Guelph Couple Travel In Prize Car With Prize Money

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle O'Neill of Guelph, Ontario, went to the Martimes in a new car on a honeymoon trip, all of which came about because luck evidently runs in three for the groom.

A graduate of Ontario Agricultural College, O'Neill won a contest. Just before the wedding day, he won a $1,000 cheque in a honeymoon contest.

Then came a bit of hard luck when the new car was damaged while another car ran into it, while it was parked on a Guelph street. This was nullified quickly, however, by a third bit of good luck when the insurance company gave O'Neill another new car to replace the damaged machine.

For Green Pastures

Much Attention Being Devoted To World Over To Grassland Problems

Although during the present generation, wheat has held the stage in the public eye as the most spectacular agricultural crop, there is a much older and important crop on which agriculture itself was founded in the dawn of civilization. This is the grassland or pasture crop. For many years, it was relegated into the background until agricultural science came to its aid by adding much to human knowledge (and profit to the farmer) in relation to grassland, its creation, management and fertilization.

Never before has there been so much interest all over the world in grassland problems, or so much attention devoted to research work along the lines of plant breeding to improve the different forage grasses and legumes, the nutritive value of the various forage crops in livestock feeding, the improvement of grassland by the use of fertilizers, pasture management, and the study of the best seed mixtures for hay and pasture purposes.

Recently scientists of the Dominion, Ontario, and Quebec Departments of Agriculture, together with those of the various agricultural colleges, held a two-day session of the Dominion-Provincial Pasture Conference at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, where the main phases of cultivation and utilization of pasture lands were discussed, and this month representative agricultural scientists will assemble for the world's Fourth International Grassland Conference at the Welsh Plant Breeding Station at Aberystwyth, Wales, chosen because the work accomplished there is internationally known. It is expected much benefit to all countries will be derived from the discussions during the meeting.

Canada will be represented by Dr. L. E. Kirk, the Dominion Agronomist, who will deliver the plenary paper for the Dominion under the title of "The Valuation of Some Species of Grasses and Legumes in Pasture under Canadian Conditions." The only other Canadian representative, Dr. MacConkey of the Canadian Research Council, will give a paper "Nutritional Aspects of Forage Crop Production in Eastern Canada."

Investigate Arctic Regions

Canadian, U.S. and British Scientists To Conduct Studies

Distinguished scientists from the United States and Great Britain this summer will conduct investigations in the Canadian Arctic regions. Dr. Charles Cammell, commissioner of the Northwest Territories council, announced names of scientists and explorers granted licenses to conduct studies within the Territories.

Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh, will be represented by Arthur C. Twomey and J. K. Keith Douthett. Commander Donald B. MacMillan is heading the Bowdoin-MacMillan Arctic expedition. Charles E. Gilliam represents Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, and the United States Geological survey. Harry Snyder will be the north sponsored by the National Museum of Canada and the American Museum of Natural History. Dr. G. Crile will be from the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, Cleveland, Ohio.

The Royal Geographical Society of Great Britain is sending David Haig-Thompson, John Wright, Richard A. Hamilton and is co-operating with St. John's College, Cambridge, in sending J. M. Wordie.

The Geographical Society has seven representatives who spent last winter in the north. They are T. H. Manning, Patrick D. Baird, R. Fullington, G. W. Rowley, R. J. O. Bray, P. Bennett and Robert Benham.

The Canadian government is sending an unusually large number of surveyors and other classes of scientists into the north, most of them on the Nascope. The east Arctic patrol, as this expedition is called, is commanded by Major D. L. McKeand.

The Careful British

No Damage Done To Parks By Coronation Crowds

What an orderly people! With all the crowds, the celebration and what not, the Rt. Hon. Commissioner of Works in the British House announced that no damage had been done to flowers or flower beds in the great London parks during the Coronation. And contrary to another great European capital, there were no "vandal" signs put up. You have to take your hat off to people en masse like the British.

New Secret Of Longevity

Brigadier-General Says Wear Suspenders To Keep Fit

It is pleasing to find a variation in the prescriptions for good health at great age. Too much they have been limited to long walks, total abstinence, regular drinking and the like. Brigadier-General Samuel E. Tillman, who will be 90 in October, astonished the ship news reporters the other day by attributing his fine physical condition to the fact that he has never supported his trousers with a belt. Suspenders are his secret, now revealed by a man who has gained distinction as soldier, astronomer, chemist and geologist.

There is much to say for the Tillman. Suspenders may be ugly, while belts are aesthetic, but the old galleys put the weight of the breeches on the shoulders and not on the hips. Put a belt on a man and he will automatically thrust his paunch out to keep the leather from slipping. Give him suspenders and he can put his chest out and his tummy in without fear and social disaster. There is also the element of congestion of the abdominal capillaries under pressure of the belt.

Suspenders went out when the vogue for country life made men try to be beautiful sans coat and waistcoat. They are coming back now and General Tillman's certificate will give them another fillip. If a man can't have two pairs in his garage he can express prosperity by having suspenders for each and every pair of trousers.—New York Sun.

SELECTED RECIPES

RHUBARB PICKLE
1 qt. rhubarb, cut fine
1 qt. onion, chopped

Method: Cut rhubarb fine; put onion through food chopper. Combine all ingredients together and simmer gently until rhubarb is tender. Seal hot in sterilized jars. Makes eight pints.

Drouth Hits Mars

Astronomers See Signs Of Arid Conditions In Equatorial Area

The planet Mars is having a drouth worse than any in the midwest dust bowl and the African Sahara.

The telescopic story of the drouth was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by two Mt. Wilson astronomers, Walter S. Adams and Theodore Dunham, Jr.

This drouth was observed in the equatorial regions, the area where dark spots that astronomers suspect is vegetation, appear in summer. It is the area fed by the canals of Mars. Judging by this report there is no doubt Martians use irrigation, if what astronomers see is vegetation.

Better Commission Programs

Extension Of Programme Period Forecast In Announcement

Extension of the daily programme period to 12 and possibly to 16 hours in October when the new high power transmitters in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia will go into action, and the formation of light opera companies in Montreal and Toronto, were some of the announcements made by Major Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, following a meeting of regional directors and programme directors.

Grand opera concerts from United States will be continued, the general manager said, but it was felt that Canadian light opera talent existed to a sufficient degree to warrant formation of two companies which will give a series of 26 concerts, 13 from Montreal and 13 from Toronto.

Historical dramatizations and sketches based upon the activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and other features representative of Canadian life, will be presented, with musical programmes originating in principal cities from coast to coast.

Of interest, to western Canada was Major Murray's announcement that United States programmes will be brought in from Pacific coast stations to avoid the time inconvenience to western listeners when these broadcasts are brought in from eastern stations.

There Is A Difference

People Can Boo But Not Hooot At Soap Box Orators

You can boo soap box orators in streets of Willens, Middlesex, England, but you can't hooot at them. What's the difference? A police inspector explained: "Hoooting is loud in volume, draws the voice of the speaker, and can be heard by people living in the neighborhood for 100 yards." He added you could hear the orators' voices above hoooting.

CANADA AND U.S. IN EXCHANGE OF GOOD WISHES

Ottawa.—President Roosevelt sent birthday greetings to Canada on July 1st and his good wishes were reciprocated to the people of the United States by Lord Tweedsmuir, the governor-general.

"Individually and collectively, we pledge you the continuation of warm friendship," the president declared in a broadcast from Hyde park, New York. From the British cruiser York in Quebec harbor, Lord Tweedsmuir thanked Mr. Roosevelt for his greetings and to Canadians addressed this message: "Let us remember today that the (Canada's) destiny is not to be a mere territorial expression and not to be merely nine provinces, but to be a single and indivisible nation."

President Roosevelt spoke as follows:

On behalf of the government and people of the United States, I give you my sincere gratification to extend a word of greeting to our Canadian friends and to congratulate them on the 70th anniversary of Canadian confederation.

Through the years that have elapsed since that memorable July 1, 1867, we of the United States have watched with the keenest and most sympathetic interest the splendid progress of the Canadian nation, which in ever-increasing measure commands our respect and inspires our affection. Individually and collectively, we pledge you the continuation of our warm friendship. I do not know of any greater measure of power of nations or of individuals to bestow.

On this occasion, the Canadian people will pause to contemplate the changes—spiritually and culturally, as well as materially—of the past 70 years. The field is broad, but in whatever direction you may look you will find just cause for pride. We rejoice with you in your past and your present, and in the promise which the future holds.

Ours is an enviable record of friendship and amity as witnessed by an unfortified boundary of more than 8,000 miles as the outward and visible token of mutual confidence and goodwill. This friendship between our two peoples is secure from every hazard of destruction or misunderstanding because it is based upon a common aspiration to maintain, to defend and to perpetuate the democratic form of constitutional representative government. In that spirit I salute our neighbor of the north. I congratulate the Canadian people on the successful achievement of the 70th institutions through three scores and 10 years of confederation. And as one who has spent so many happy moments on Canadian soil, I send you my affectionate greeting.

Lord Tweedsmuir spoke as follows: On behalf of the people of Canada, I most warmly reciprocate the greeting of the president of the United States. Canada is an old country, as a people's unit she is older than the United States, older even than New England or Virginia. But the United States became a federated people nearly a century before us and thereby set us an example. We welcome the friendship and affection the good wishes of the president not merely as a pledge of fellowship between neighbors and old friends but as the congratulations of the pioneers who blazed the trail for us to follow.

We are neighbors and friends and we are also colleagues. We are both North American peoples with the making of a new civilization in our hands. We have both behind us a living European tradition which must be the basis of that civilization. And we are both coming to realize that we have certain responsibilities to the world at large, which may still be difficult to define, but which it is probable will have much in common. Marching in the same direction towards the same goal, I hope and believe that more and more we shall come to pool our ideas about a problems of the world.

I should like to offer to the people of Canada one reflection which I think is appropriate to this day of national remembrance. Seventy years ago the fathers of confederation accomplished a great work. They gave Canada unity. They could not give unity. Unity comes only by the process of time, by the slow assimilation of different points of view and different traditions. Canada must have not merely a formal confederation, but a sincere identity of purpose, and a true homogeneity of spirit. Let us remember to-day that her destiny is not to be a mere territorial expression and not to be merely nine vigorous provinces, but to be a single and indivisible nation.

Guard Shoots Prisoner

Convict At St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary Is Slain

Montreal.—A convict at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary was shot by a guard at a prison quarry outside the penitentiary walls after an asserted attempt to attack a second guard.

The prisoner was identified as Onesiphore Michelin, 25, of Three Rivers, Que., who was serving a sentence for breaking and entering and theft.

Shot through the head, he died instantly.

An informed source said the shooting occurred when Michelin struck a guard in the quarry, about two miles from the actual prison site but on penitentiary property.

The alleged attack, this source said, was not part of any concerted uprising. Nor was Michelin attempting to escape. Apparently, this information said, he became angered at the guard and hit him. Whether or not he used a weapon was not indicated.

Another guard overlooking the quarry in a higher tower saw the occurrence and shot at the convict. The shot was fired, it was explained, merely to disable the prisoner. The bullet passed through his brain.

Would Grow More Wheat

Britain Considers Question Of Increasing Acreage

London.—The House of Commons considered the question of the production of wheat in Great Britain as W. S. Morrison, minister of agriculture, moved a money resolution to supplement the plans of the government.

The scheme, announced May 27, amongst other things proposed raising the limit of the "anticipated supply" under the wheat act of 1932 from 45,000,000 to 44,000,000 bushels. T. Williams, Labor, said the proposal to extend the amount of wheat on which the price will be guaranteed would be further encouragement for farmers to grow wheat on land not suited for it. He argued the United Kingdom could not compete with Canada, the United States, Australia or South America in the production of wheat, barley and oats.

Need Polar Bases

Required In Canada, U.S. And Alaska, Says Soviet Expert

Moscow.—Dr. Otto J. Schmidt, leader of the Soviet polar expedition, said in an interview that bases would have to be established in Canada, the United States and Alaska before regular air service between the U.S.S.R. and North America would begin.

He outlined a government plan to build several north polar camps in 1938 at even more remote spots than the present Soviet base and declared the government intended to continue scientific work in the polar region as a permanent project.

The explorer voiced agreement with the recent expressed view of Sir Hubert Wilkins, polar explorer, that a submarine could be used to reach the pole but he said Russia had proved that aeroplanes were more practical.

Train Reaches High Speed

114 Miles Per Hour On Test Run In Britain

London.—A speed of 114 miles per hour was attained by a London, Midland and Scottish express train in the course of a record-breaking test run from London to Crewe, Cheshire, and return.

The train—the Coronation Scot—covered the 158 miles from Crewe to Euston station, London, in 119 minutes at an average speed of 80 m.p.h. and a world record for the longest sustained speed will be claimed.

The trip to Crewe was covered in 22 1/2 minutes at an average speed of 73 m.p.h., a record for that run. The train touched 114 m.p.h. near Stafford, a record for a British steam train, while top speed on the return run was 100 m.p.h.

The train goes into service on a 300-minute schedule between London and Glasgow July 5.

Short Season Commences

Summer Is Now In Full Swing At Goldfields

Goldfields, Sask.—In the short Arctic and Arctic the summer is on, trees are in full leaf, flowers are in bloom, birds are nesting, and it's 80 above. Berry bushes, too, are blooming. The latter include askatonias, raspberries, blueberries, gooseberries, cranberries, dew berries and others. In less than a month fruit will have formed and will be ripening. Bears will be happy.

Back in the deep dark muskegs and lowlands myriads of mosquitoes and black flies lie in wait to initiate the innocent. In the Athabasca country it is summer. Sleigh dogs are resting. Northerners are glad that this season is short and sweet.

LIBERALS SWEEP BACK INTO POWER IN NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax.—Premier Angus L. Macdonald's Liberal government was swept back into power in the Nova Scotia general election on a tide of votes that won for it 25 of the legislature's 30 seats and sent Opposition Leader Gordon S. Harrington down to personal defeat in his own riding.

Five Conservatives were elected, three less than in 1933. All cabinet ministers were returned with substantial majorities.

Liberals were victorious in all five Halifax seats—three in the city, two in the county. They swept all eight in Cape Breton island.

The adjoining counties of Cumberland and Colchester returned four of the five Conservatives elected. The fifth came from Queens, on the south shore. In Cape Breton East, only three-cornered fight of the day, Rev. W. T. Mercer, Labor, beat out the Conservative candidate but lost to a Liberal.

George Morrison's victory over the Conservative leader in Cape Breton South was the first personal defeat ever suffered by Col. Harrington.

In Premier Macdonald's riding, Halifax South, he rolled up a majority of more than 1,100, or 600 more than he enjoyed in the 1933 poll.

Although there were approximately 25,000 more names on the voters lists than in 1933, total votes polled were about the same as in that year. Fine weather in most districts aided party workers.

Premier Macdonald was given a wild ovation when, with others of the Liberal candidates in Halifax, he appeared in the downtown district as return of his government was assured.

"The overwhelming support that has been given to the Liberal party in this election can only be interpreted as an expression of satisfaction with the work which we have accomplished during the past four years and with the program which we have in mind for the future," he said in a statement.

No candidates lost their deposits, although in some cases the government representatives increased the majorities they had in 1933.

Agricultural Research

Essential To Future Progress, Says University Man

Saskatoon.—Intensive research in agriculture, tempered with the knowledge that conditions affecting the industry were flexible, was essential to future progress, asserted Dr. O. B. Jensen, of the agricultural economics division, University of Minnesota, in an address before delegates to the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists here. Dr. G. S. H. Barton, deputy minister of agriculture for Canada, was chairman of the session.

Dr. Jensen told delegates that future agricultural policy, both in Canada and the United States, would be determined mainly by research, and it was therefore essential that research be divorced from outside influences, and conducted by men who realized that flexibility was an inherent factor in agriculture.

Prior to 1929, little had been heard about policy, but since then, the need for planning economy in many branches of trade and industry had been recognized, the speaker said. In dictators, this planning had been effected through strict attention to scientific data, with the human element disregarded. In democratic countries, planning depended mainly upon public opinion.

Research, the speaker declared, must first seek truth, and then face facts as they actually existed. Secondly, it was essential that the truths so learned be applied with a long-range view in mind. Research was absolutely necessary to the formation of a satisfactory agricultural policy, he claimed. It was the basis of progress, for it provided reasons for what had already happened, and gave an inkling of what might be expected in the future.

Many mistakes had been made in the past respecting the use of farm, timber and mining lands. When unexpected problems arose in agriculture, realized that a different policy should have been followed in the first place. This situation was the result of a lack of facts.

Damage From Insects

Loss Up To 25 Per Cent. Of Crop In Bad Years

Saskatoon.—Damage ranging from 20 to 25 per cent. in bad years was caused to Saskatchewan's wheat crop by insect infestation, declared R. M. King, of the federal entomological branch, who addressed a session of the Western Canadian Society of Agronomy, in convention at the University of Saskatchewan.

Mr. King did not infer that this was an average damage, but he believed it fair to state that with control measures, more than 10 per cent. of the damage caused to crops was due to insects.

A complete discussion of the infestation of wireworms, pale western cutworms, grasshoppers and western sawfly was given by the speaker who stressed the need for constant study and control.

If there had been no government control campaign in 1934, when grasshopper infestation in Saskatchewan was heavier than usual there would have been little crop, Mr. King asserted.

Insects wreaked a direct and indirect damage on crops, Mr. King declared. In Saskatchewan, statistics collected over the last 11 years indicated that the pale western cutworm caused sawfly damage to crops was roughly five per cent. for each insect in bad years, and 10 per cent. in the case of grasshoppers and wireworms.

Search Believed Over

Body Found At Sea May Be That Of Duchess Of Bedford

London.—Discovery at sea of the headless and decomposed body of a woman clad in flying tops apparently solved the three-month mystery of the 71-year-old Duchess of Bedford's disappearance while piloting her private plane in a survey flight over the River Duse area.

Capt. R. S. Riley of the British steamship Haytor found what was believed the body of the peeress who learned to fly at the age of 61 and acquired her flying world three years later by setting an England-Cape town record.

The Duchess took off March 22 from Woburn Abbey, Bedfordshire, en route of Cambridge. When nothing was heard from her, a wide search began.

A few days later the wreckage of a plane identified as hers was washed up on the Norfolk Beach, and it seemed certain she met disaster at sea.

OBJECTION TAKEN TO BRITAIN OVER SPANISH PATROL

London.—Germany and Italy rejected a proposal by Great Britain and France to patrol all of Spain's coasts in the interests of neutrality. A report from British sources recognized Spanish insurgent General Francisco Franco as a belligerent in return for continued collaboration of Germany and Italy in the "hands off Spain" program was denied by a foreign office spokesman.

The spokesman said if the whole non-intervention plan fell through the position might be "very different" and might conceivably carry belligerence with it. The spokesman said the East of Plymouth charter of the non-intervention committee, in outlining the Anglo-French proposal to take over the Spanish patrol, received a prompt rejection from Germany and Italy.

Both Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German ambassador, and Count Dino Grandi, the Italian envoy, asked hypothetically what attitude Britain and France would take if the roles were reversed. That is, if Germany and Italy suggested taking over the whole naval patrol.

The Italian also declared "not a single volunteer had left my country for Spain since the ban agreed upon by this committee (Feb. 20)."

A suggestion by the French ambassador, Charles Corbin, that immediate arrangements be made for withdrawal of all foreigners now prisoners or wounded in Spain is to be discussed.

Under the patrol proposal, Great Britain would police coasts now held by the Spanish government and divide with France responsibility for patroling coasts held by the insurgents. They would take neutral observers aboard their ships.

Czechoslovakia, Belgium, Sweden and Soviet Russia approved. Italy and Germany centred their objection on ground the proposal was "not based on necessary equilibrium so as to insure absolute impartiality of control."

RUSSO-JAPANESE BORDER DISPUTE APPEARS SERIOUS

Moscow.—The Soviet government announced it would withdraw its armed forces from the disputed Amur river islands, scene of a Russo-Japanese clash, if Japan agrees to do likewise.

The announcement, made in a foreign office communique, declared Soviet Russia claims indemnification for the Russian losses in the fight which created a situation described by the Japanese ambassador as "very strained."

Russia had suddenly floated a defence loan of 4,000,000,000 rubles ($800,000,000 at the official rate) to be used for "consolidation of national defence." Officials predicted quick over-subscription.

The Japanese envoy, Mamoru Shigemitsu, had intimated "very serious" consequences might come if the Soviet Union rejected Japan's demand for evacuation of the disputed islands in the Amur, on the border of Russian Siberia and Japanese-dominated Manchukuo.

"The Soviet army is ready immediately to give the necessary order to retire its armed forces should a similar order be issued on the other side."

The communique added: "If it should turn out there are no Japanese boats there now, as Ambassador Shigemitsu asserts, then Litvinov (Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov) assures the ambassador that the Soviet patrol will be withdrawn immediately and thus the question will be settled."

If the Japanese ships have been withdrawn, the statement said then Russia is willing "to begin negotiations on redemarcation of the frontier line along the Amur." Both sides claim ownership of the islands, possession of which means control of the river.

A Japanese army communique announced Japanese Manchukuoan land forces had sunk one Soviet Russian gunboat, inflicted casualties on another and repulsed a third vessel after being fired upon at Blagoveshchensk, the Amur river.

The communique asserted three Soviet boats, "invading" south Kancharov island below Blagoveshchensk, "opened fire on Japanese Manchukuoan guards." The Japanese action followed.

The Amur river runs along the northeastern Manchukuo-Siberian border.

Ever since Japan took over Manchukuo in China in 1931 the frontier between Russia and Manchukuo, its Japanese-sponsored neighbor, has been disputed.

Up to that time the Russians enjoyed virtual monopoly of the Amur.

Various subsequent attempts by Soviet Russia and Manchukuo to establish a recognized border line along the 3,000-mile frontier, especially in the Amur area, have failed. The new border clash followed close upon an announcement by the Japanese embassy in Moscow that the Russian government had agreed to withdraw troops and boats concentrated at Bolshoi and Sennui islands in the Amur river.

The official announcement said Manchukuo would then withdraw troops from a nearby shore position.

There have been several border clashes between Russian and Japanese-Manchukuoan troops in recent weeks. Russian despatches from Siberia laid these to "provocative attempts" to block navigation on the Amur river and seize the islands which Russia claims.
